

Write About a Time...

Name: _____ Date set: _____ Due: _____

CHOOSE ONE OF THE FOLLOWING

1. Write about a time when you were completely certain about something, and then found out you were wrong.
2. Write about a time when helping someone caused an unexpected problem.

STRUCTURE

Same structure as before: flashback → present moment → action → dialogue → sensory detail → hook. Then keep going — finish the scene properly, don't stop at the exciting bit.

Analepsis x1 sentence

Action sentences x2

Dialogue x1

Sensory (3 details) x1

Intriguing detail x1

Semicolons x2

Colons x2

Foreshadowing + suspense throughout

Being wrong is a great hook — what did you believe, and what one detail should have warned you?

YOUR WRITING

CHECKLIST — GO OVER IT AGAIN

☐ Read it all out loud first.

2. ☐ Dialogue tags — "asked" / "he" / "she" after speech: lower case, not capital.
3. ☐ New sentence inside speech marks — starts with a capital. No full stop before "and."
4. ☐ Was / were — check it matches a singular or plural subject.
5. ☐ Every sentence has a verb.
6. ☐ Ending is finished — not notes, not cut off mid-action.

2 semicolons — somewhere in the piece

.....
.....

2 colons — somewhere in the piece

.....
.....

Summit Tuition — structured creative writing homework. Build each step in order, then continue the story freely from where Step 6 leaves off.